OUR PLEDGE REGARDING HEALTH INFORMATION

We understand that health information about you and your health care is personal. We are committed to protecting health information about you. We create a record of the care and services you receive from us. We need this record to provide you with quality care and to comply with certain legal requirements. This notice applies to all of the records of your care generated by Albuquerque Health Care for the Homeless, including medical, dental, mental health and substance abuse services. There are certain types of information that are subject to very specific confidentiality laws and Albuquerque Health Care for the Homeless will only disclose in accordance with those laws. This includes mental health records, drug and alcohol records, genetic testing, STD testing information, and HIV/AIDs testing. This notice will tell you about the ways in which we may use and disclose health information about you. We also describe your rights to the health information we keep about you, and describe certain obligations we have regarding the use and disclosure of your health information.

We are required by law to: make sure that health information that identifies you is kept private; give you this notice of our legal duties and privacy practices with respect to health information about you; and follow the terms of the notice that is currently in effect.

HOW WE MAY USE AND DISCLOSE HEALTH INFORMATION ABOUT YOU

The following categories describe different ways that we use and disclose health information. For each category of uses or disclosures we will explain what we mean and try to give some examples. Not every use or disclosure in a category will be listed. However, all of the ways we are permitted to use and disclose information will fall within one of the categories.

For Treatment. We may use health information about you to provide you with health care treatment and services. We may disclose health information about you to doctors, nurses, technicians, dentists, mental health providers, health students, or other personnel who are involved in taking care of you. They may work at our offices, at the hospital if you are hospitalized under our supervision, or at another doctor's office, lab, pharmacy, or other health care provider to whom we may refer you for consultation, to take x-rays, to perform lab tests, to have prescriptions filled, or for other treatment purposes. For example, a doctor treating you for a broken leg may need to know if you have diabetes because diabetes may slow the healing process. We may also disclose health information about you to an entity assisting in a disaster relief effort so that your family can be notified about your condition, status, and location.

For Payment. We may use and disclose health information about you so that the treatment and services you receive from us may be billed to and payment collected from Medicaid, funding sources, or a third party payor. For example, we may need to give information about your office visit so Medicaid will pay us for the visit. We may also tell Medicaid about a treatment you are going to receive to obtain prior approval or to determine whether Medicaid will cover the treatment.

For Health Care Operations. We may use and disclose health information about you for operations of our health care practice. These uses and disclosures are necessary to run our practice and make sure that all of our patients receive quality care. For example, we may use health information to review our treatment and services and to evaluate the performance of our staff in caring for you. We may also combine health information about many patients to decide what additional services we should offer, what services are not needed, whether certain new treatments are effective, or to compare how we are doing with other agencies and to see where we can make improvements. In addition, we may use a sign-in sheet at the registration desk where you will be asked to sign your name. During our registration process, you may be asked for your name, date of birth, social security number and reason for your visit. We may also call you by name in the waiting room when you are ready to be seen. We may disclose limited health information to provide you with appointment reminders such as voicemail messages.

We will share your health information with third party “business associates” that perform various activities for the agency. Whenever an arrangement between our office and a business associate involves the use or disclosure of your health information, we will have a written contract that contains terms that will protect the privacy of your health information.

As Required By Law. We will disclose health information about you when required to do so by federal, state, or local law, including situations in which you may be involved in lawsuits, disputes, or law enforcement.

Research. Under certain circumstances, we may use and disclose health information about you for research purposes. For example, a research project may involve comparing the health and recovery for all patients who receive one medication to those who received another, for the same condition. All research projects, however, are subject to a special approval process. This process evaluates a proposed research project and its use of health information, trying to balance the research needs with the patient’s need for privacy of their health information. Before we use or disclose health information for research, the project will have been approved through this research approval process. We will always ask for authorization before releasing your health information for research.

To Avert a Serious Threat to Health or Safety. We may use and disclose health information about you when necessary to prevent a serious threat to your health and safety; to protect the safety of the Albuquerque Health Care for the Homeless organization, staff, and facilities; or the health and safety of the public or another person. Any disclosure, however, would only be to someone able to help prevent the threat.

Military and Veterans. If you are a member of the armed forces or separated/discharged from military services, we may release health information about you as required by military command authorities or the Department of Veteran Affairs as may be applicable. We may also release health information about foreign military personnel to the appropriate foreign military authorities.

Workers’ Compensation. We may release health information about you for workers’ compensation or similar programs. These programs provide benefits for work-related injuries or illness.

Public Health Risks. We may disclose health information about you for public health activities. These activities generally include the following: to prevent or control disease, injury, gunshot wound, or disability; to report births and deaths; to report child or elder abuse or neglect; to report reactions to medications or problems with products; to notify people of recalls of products they may be using; to notify a person or organization required to receive information on FDA- regulated products; to notify a person who may have been exposed to a disease or may be at risk for contracting or spreading a disease or condition; or to notify the appropriate government authority if we believe a patient has been the victim of abuse, or neglect. We will only make this disclosure if you agree or when required or authorized by law.

Health Oversight Activities. We may disclose health information to a health oversight agency for activities authorized by law. These oversight activities include, for example, audits, investigations, inspections, and licensure. These activities are necessary for the government to monitor the health care system, government programs, and compliance with civil rights laws.

Coroners, Health Examiners and Funeral Directors. We may release health information to a coroner or health examiner. This may be necessary, for example, to identify a deceased person or determine the cause of death. We may also release health information about patients to funeral directors as necessary to carry out their duties. In event of your death, we may notify or assist authorities in the notification of a family member and disclose the circumstances surrounding this event.

We may deny your request to inspect and copy in certain very limited circumstances. If you are denied access to health information, you may request that the denial be reviewed.
